CHEFS WHO CARE has been a popular, monthly fundraising event for CSA’s Food & Nutrition Center.

If you dine out once a month, or are a member of a group that socializes once a month looking for a unique event, we ask you to consider one of the CHEFS WHO CARE dinner nights. There are NO speeches and NO appeals for more money. It’s just a night out and a good meal for a good cause!

“Healthy nutrition is essential not only for physical and mental growth and development, but also for the prevention of illness and chronic disease.”
(SC County Children’s Report, 2005)

“Children who come from food insecure homes or who are hungry are more likely to get sick, have problems in school, experience trouble getting along with their peers, and show high levels of anxious behavior. As these children mature into adulthood, our society will feel the effects of their deprivation in the form of higher rates of school failure, greater health care costs, and lost workplace productivity.”

(Children’s Defense Fund, June 2004)

That’s why we ask you to consider stepping up to the plate this month at our CHEFS WHO CARE dinner. Your participation will make a big difference in minimizing food insecurity and hunger for many. Just ask one of the 3,000 individuals who “shop” and receive food from our Food & Nutrition Center. That’s one out of every 20 residents of Mountain View, Los Altos and Los Altos Hills who receive food from the over one ton of food we distribute each business day!
